Drones

Drones have become very popular in recent years as they are generally much easier to fly than helicopters and easier to repair in the event of a crash.

Many drones have video cameras available either as standard or as an optional extra. The cheaper ones download their footage to a memory card and can be viewed through a card reader equipped PC or similar. Dearer ones have the ability to downlink the data direct to a phone or pad as the footage is being filmed. When combined with built in GPS positioning this makes it possible to aim the camera from the ground.
